What's New in the VCam?

Video for Windows Media Player - a VCam is a replacement for your desktop webcam, available as a VFW plug-in and as an operating system service. The plug-in works directly in WMP and without a server. If you use WMP on a Windows Vista or Windows 7 computer, you need to install a VCam plug-in. This VCam software works with the new WMP 8 (32-bit only) and 10 (32-bit only). When you run this webcam application, the Video for Windows Media Player appears as a standard webcam in the notification area. The service can start, stop and restart as required by system events. You can also schedule a VCam service to start when you log in to the computer. The service sends frames to the local VCam plug-in in WMP. This can be as simple as a copy of the camera frames or as complex as a video stream from a video server.
